Pakistani actress Hania Aamir has addressed her views on marriage, assuring fans she won't keep any secrets when the time comes. Speaking at an event in Canada, Aamir said, "Whenever I decide to get married, I'll let everyone know—I won't keep it a secret." She added that boundaries shouldn't prevent people from connecting with those they care for, regardless of nationality or location. Aamir explained that her international visits allow her to meet supporters, saying, "I feel genuinely happy meeting all of you who admire my work." In recent years, Aamir's relationships have been the subject of media attention, particularly her previous connection with singer Asim Azhar. The two parted ways publicly, and since then, her fans have speculated about her future marriage plans. Aamir's remarks come as her popularity continues to grow, both locally and internationally.
