The Ministry of Interior, Islamabad Police, FIA, and NAB have submitted reports to the court revealing the number of cases filed against Imran Khan, the founder of Pakistan Tehreek-e-Insaf (PTI). According to the latest report, the total number of cases filed against Imran Khan across the country has now reached 186. The report revealed that 99 cases have been filed against Khan in Punjab, while 2 cases have been registered in Khyber Pakhtunkhwa. Additionally, the Islamabad Police report stated that 74 cases have been filed in the capital. The Federal Investigation Agency

(FIA) report highlighted that 7 cases or inquiries are pending against Khan. The National Accountability Bureau (NAB) also has 3 cases pending investigation. Moreover, Khan's appeal against his conviction in the Toshakhana criminal case is still under consideration. It is also noted that several of these cases were filed in connection with protests held by Imran Khan in October, November, and December. Earlier reports indicated that after the D-Chowk protest, 14 additional cases were filed against him in Islamabad, raising the total number of cases in the city to 76..
