The world welcomed 2025 with spectacular fireworks and light shows, showcasing diverse celebrations across the globe.

In East and Southeast Asia, countries like China, the Philippines, and Malaysia lit up the skies with vibrant firework displays and intricate drone shows. However, in South Korea, New Year celebrations were scaled back or canceled in the wake of Sunday's tragic Muan air crash, which claimed 179 lives.

Sydney's iconic harbor erupted in cheers as the city marked the new year with a breathtaking fireworks spectacle that illuminated the skies at midnight. Meanwhile, India's 1.4 billion residents are preparing to usher in 2025 at 18:30 GMT.

Despite inclement weather affecting many regions in the UK, London confirmed its New Year's Eve fireworks display will proceed as planned, offering a moment of joy amid a challenging season.

The world's celebrations blend festivity with reflection, marking the beginning of 2025 with hope and resilience.
