

During this campaign, launched on the special directives of the District Magistrate Yasir Riaz Chaudhry, the law enforcement raiding teams imposed fine for Rs. 11,69,600 w on violators with warnings issued to several of them of imposition of heavy penalties in case of denying law through supplying sub standard food items, an official spokesperson of District administration told our Special Jammu Kashmir state Correspondent Altaf Hamid Rao here on Wednesday.

The spokesperson continued that in addition to checking at entry points on a daily basis to provide pure and quality milk throughout the district, 69 milk samples will be taken during the inspection, of which 41 samples were satisfactory and 28 were found to be mixed with water, while 21 samples will be sent to the laboratory for chemical adulteration in milk, of which none of the samples were found to be mixed with chemicals.

Thus, no substandard milk was found or destroyed during the inspection. Last month, 155 meat shops were inspected across the district to check the quality of meat, tanks and water filter plants of 10 hotels were also checked to check the quality of water, while 42 different marriage halls and marquees were checked in the district. Similarly, health SOPs will also be checked in 145 hotels, marriage halls and marquees to ensure that hygiene rules are followed, he added.

Besides, the prices of food items were also checked and those who charged more than the prescribed rates were fined, arrested and cases were also registered against them. To check the quality of petroleum products across the district, the scales of petrol pumps and the weights and prices of gas cylinders were also checked.

Various actions were taken against those who increased or decreased the weights. Thus, the quality of medicines and implementation of health SOPs were checked by the Drug Controller at pharmacies and medical stores across the district.

“Stringent actions are also being taken against those selling unhealthy, substandard and expired goods across the district under the auspices of the Food Department”, the spokesperson asserted.

The public meanwhile, has, meanwhile, commended these actions expecting that the quality of food items in Mirpur district will be maintained at all costs if the drive for reformation and check and balance continued.
