Doha, Qatar – 20 October 2025 – Msheireb Museums marked its 10th anniversary with a day conference and gala dinner, celebrating a decade of transforming heritage into living inspiration. The milestone was commemorated with the launch of two publications in collaboration with Hamad Bin Khalifa University Press.

Born from the vision of Her Highness Sheikha Moza bint Nasser, Msheireb Museums has enriched the educational journey of more than 200,000 students over the past decade through strategic partnerships with academic and cultural institutions, establishing itself as a vital platform for dialogue between heritage and contemporary urban development.

Eng. Ali Al Kuwari, Chief Executive Officer, Msheireb Properties, said: “For ten years, Msheireb Museums has embodied Her Highness Sheikha Moza bint Nasser’s vision that our past should never remain silent, but actively inspire our future. These four houses have proven that heritage and progress are not opposing forces—they are partners in building sustainable, culturally rooted communities. Within Msheireb Downtown Doha, the museums demonstrate daily how traditional wisdom shapes contemporary innovation. As we celebrate this milestone and share our experience through these publications, we reaffirm our commitment to being houses that continue to inspire us as families, as communities, and as a nation.”

Abdulla Al Naama, General Manager, Msheireb Museums, said: “Over the past decade, Msheireb Museums has become more than a repository of heritage—we’ve become a living platform where Qatar’s stories actively shape identity and inspire belonging. From the 200,000 students who’ve discovered their heritage within these walls to the families reconnecting with their roots, these houses have fulfilled their purpose as spaces for education, dialogue, and community. The two publications we launch today document not just buildings and principles, but the community wisdom that make heritage truly alive.”
