"I also thank Prime Minister of Pakistan Mian Shahbaz Sharif for his decision to support the PPP in Azad Kashmir", PM said. Referring to his family's decades long relationship with the PPP, PM Rathore said, "In 1975, Shaheed Zulfikar Ali Bhutto gave my father, Mumtaz Hussain Rathore, the senior ministry, in 1990, Mohtarma Benazir Bhutto entrusted the post of Prime Minister to my father and today, I was elected as the Prime Minister". Terming it a huge responsibility, the PM said, “Fulfilling this duty in these challenging times is not easy; but I believe that Allah places as much burden as a person can endure”. “We will try our best to uphold the trust that the party Chairman has placed in us and will run state’s affairs effectively in a transparent manner”, he remarked. “We have a very short time but we will ensure that the things are sorted out in due course without wasting any time”, he noted. The PM, while reiterating his commitment to serve the masses with sincerity and integrity, said, “Besides providing basic amenities of life to people, we have to improve the process of accountability”. The prime minister paid rich tributes to the martyrs of the Pakistan army, who, he said, were offering their blood and sweat to safeguard the country's geographical and ideological frontiers.

The Prime Minister said that it was his first and foremost duty to remove the feeling of deprivation of the people. "We will ensure public service by setting up open courts and going to the grassroots level. We will serve the people and restore self-respect.

Today, people from all over Azad Kashmir have come to participate in the oath-taking ceremony, which is a manifestation of their trust and confidence over the leadership of people's party", he added. Recalling his father and former PM of the AJK Mumtaz Hussain Rathore, he said, "My father ruled for only nine months, but his style of government was so excellent that people still remember him".
