Doha: Bradma Group, a leading FMCG brand and one of Qatar's largest importers of rice and pulses with over five decades of service, has praised Qatar Sports Chronicle, the flagship sports publication produced by Media Plus.

The appreciation was conveyed during a meeting at the Bradma Group headquarters, where copies of the publication were formally presented by its Chief Editor, Dr. Amanulla Vadakkangara.

Group Chairman Hashim Kunduvalappil Lambeth, CEO Muhammed Hafis, and Group General Manager Dr. Arif congratulated the Media Plus team for producing a comprehensive chronicle documenting Qatar's sporting achievements and global stature.

Chairman Hashim Kunduvalappil Lambeth commended Media Plus for publishing a high-quality sports reference that captures Qatar's emergence as a major international sporting destination. He noted that such publications enhance community awareness of sports, health, and national pride.

CEO Muhammed Hafis praised the chronicle's editorial excellence and professional presentation, stating that it reflects Qatar's vision, advanced infrastructure, and sustained commitment to hosting world-class sporting events.

Group General Manager Dr. Arif observed that sports and business share core values—discipline, teamwork, endurance, and strategic vision—and lauded Media Plus for highlighting these dimensions through the publication.

Bradma Group today represents a diversified business conglomerate spanning FMCG, building materials, electricals, trading, contracting, food, retail, automotive parts, aluminium, and steel and glass fabrication. With a legacy exceeding 50 years, the Group continues to support Qatar's economic growth and supply-chain stability.

Guided by the leadership of Khalid Abdulla Mathar Al Mannai and Chairman Hashim

Kunduvalappil Lambeth, Bradma Group reaffirmed its appreciation for Media Plus and extended best wishes for its continued contributions to media, publishing, and community engagement in Qatar.
