Yes, we cannot compete with the international world by applying the methods of the nineties. In order to take the country on the path of development, everyone has to play their part and revolutionize the world of technology.

In particular, educating the young generation on the method of innovation and providing opportunities and benefiting from them is the right of everyone, he expressed these views while addressing the ceremony organized on the occasion of the inauguration of the Master Franchise of Arfa Karim Technology Incubator in Mirpur.

There is a need to revolutionize technology, not just to make it a money making system, but to be self-sustainable and involve others with it and light the lamp so that we can include more and more people in this stream. I am very happy to come to Mirpur, Ansir Mirza organized an exemplary program here today and I am very happy that there is a lot of talent here who we can develop by providing facilities and by providing innovation in education to make them employable and then create institutions and We can make more people employable.

Our boys and girls are very intelligent, but only we can make them a diamond by providing facilities and polishing their hidden skills to make Pakistan proud. Make it purposeful and have your own AIM. You can reach the destination only when you have determined the path.
